Dominion Minister of Agriculture Promises to Hold Conference on Disposal of 1940 Canadian Fruit Crop as Soon after Election as Possible—Will Not Reveal any Plans in Sight—Shippers Discuss 1940 Marketing Agreement with Tree Fruits and Apportion Committee to Settle Details—Apple Movement Continues at Satisfactory Rate Ahead of Similar Weeks Last Year

Government Agent to Investigate Onion Surplus

"HON. James G. Gardiner, Dominion minister of agriculture, assured me that when the election is over a conference to discuss the problems of disposing the 1940 crop of apples will be held as soon as possible," A. K. Loyd, president of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. told The Courier on Tuesday following his return from Vancouver, where he interviewed the minister on Saturday both before and after his address at the auditorium. Mr. Loyd went to Vancouver in an endeavor to ascertain if the agriculture minister would outline any plans concerning the Canadian apple crop in 1940-41, but the federal minister could not reveal any definite program at this time.

However, Mr. Gardiner did promise early action on the problem, which was more definite assurance than he would give some of the other agricultural deputations which waited on him, Mr. Loyd indicated. In the meantime, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. is continuing its plans for the control of the 1940 crop. Tree Fruits called a meeting in Kelowna last Friday of contract shippers to discuss the agreement which had been prepared by the grower company for the control of next season's crop.

There was a lengthy discussion, held in private, between the shippers and representatives of the company. On Tuesday afternoon, in Kelowna, another meeting of shippers, called by the Okanagan Federated Shippers Association was held. The press was informed that the meeting was a private one.

Following the Friday meeting, Mr. Loyd indicated that the shippers had not brought up any serious objections to the export clause in the tentative agreement, whereby Tree Fruits would have supervisory powers over the export deal without actually entering into the marketing of the fruit on the export market.

It was decided that a committee of shippers would be appointed to go further into this agreement with Tree Fruits and endeavor to reach a satisfactory arrangement from both angles.

At the Tuesday meeting of the shippers' association a committee of E. J. Chambers, J. E. Montague, A. P. Hayes, L. R. Stephens and H. G. Greenwood was appointed to represent the association in its negotiations with Tree Fruits.

No announcement as to any definite proposals on the part of the shippers as to their ideas on the agreement, which was outlined in last week's issue of The Courier, could be obtained from officers of the association. They declared that a general discussion had been held and it was decided to leave final settlement to the committee set up.

Investigate Surplus
While in Vancouver, A. K. Loyd made an attempt to obtain some government assistance for the surplus onion deal in the interior of B.C. but no government aid was forthcoming. However, a government representative is now on the prairies investigating production surpluses and attempts are being made to have him come to the Okanagan within the next week.

Onion stocks are beginning to depreciate at a serious rate, due to the mild weather and unless some action is taken in the immediate future, the entire surplus of some 5,000 tons will prove a total loss. Movement of apples to the domestic market is being held up.

Margaret Taylor and Alan France Fail to Reach Finals but Put up Stirring Battles

Kelowna's badminton heroes, Margaret Taylor and Alan France, returned home to the Orchard City without having picked up any Dominion crowns to show away in their luggage but sure in one respect that they have acquitted themselves well in the Dominion badminton championships, which wound up at Winnipeg on Saturday afternoon.

Neither player reached the finals, but in a tournament of upsets that was not surprising. In nearly every case, it took players who eventually reached the finals to upset these two shuttle stars from the centre of the fruit belt.

To Margaret Taylor, this campaigning is old stuff as she has been attending Canadian tournaments for more than five years. But to Alan France, the 17-year-old junior champion of this province, it was an experience which will stand him in good stead. A special writer in the Vancouver Sun stated on Monday:

Move Made to Force New Arrangement—Province Claims it Dropped $2,668 Here Last Year

The present arrangement for policing of the city by the provincial police will be terminated, according to information received by the city council on Monday night from T. W. S. Parsons, commissioner of B.C. Police, Victoria.

The information, however, made it clear that there was no intention of the provincial police withdrawing from Kelowna but that the present arrangement was being considered as a new arrangement might be arrived at, the police official maintaining that his department suffered a deficit of $2,668.75 through its arrangements with this city during 1939.

The council understood that similar notices had been received by Kamloops and Vernon and it was decided that the matter should be tabled until it could be discussed at the meeting of the Union of Okanagan Municipalities being held in Vernon on Thursday (today).

Miss Margaret Taylor and Alan France, who participated in the Canadian badminton championships at Winnipeg returned home Tuesday.

THE first gun of the Dominion election campaign, insofar as Rutland is concerned, was fired by the Liberals when they held a public meeting in the Rutland community hall on Thursday evening, March 7th. About 75 people attended in spite of the heavy downpour of rain. F. L. Fitzpatrick, president of the Rutland and Ellison Liberal Association occupied the chair. The first speaker was Dr. W. J. Knox, president of the B.C. Liberal Association, who dealt briefly with the main issue of the campaign, the war record of the government. Unfair criticism of the administration had precipitated the election, said the speaker, and he urged his hearers to use their own judgment as to which government would be the best for Canada and not to be misled by newspaper comment or radio talks designed to draw red herrings across the trail.

DR. SHEPHERD NEW
ROTARY PREXY

Dr. J. W. N. Shepherd was unanimously elected president of the local Rotary Club for the coming year at the club's regular meeting on Tuesday at the Royal Anne. The new president does not assume his duties until June next.

Dr. Shepherd replaced the local club in 1932 and since that time has never missed a single meeting. In other words he has attended a Rotary meeting in some city every week for twelve years. He has served as secretary of the club for eleven years.

G. A. McKay addressed the club briefly on the sewer bylaw before the ratification and Capt. C. R. Bull made a plea for support for the Kelowna Welfare Association which is in desperate need of funds. W. Hardy spoke on boys' work giving special emphasis to the various endeavors a Rotary club might undertake in this matter.

Revelstoke Committee to Report Plans to Directors of Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association—Will Spend $1,000 in 1940

Adoption of a budget of $1,000, to be spent for the most part on the cashing of a tourist station on the Big Bend highway or one of its approaches, was the chief feature of the directors' meeting of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association at Wenatchee on Saturday.

Keynote of the discussion centered around the impending opening of the Big Bend highway on June 22nd with ceremonies at Revelstoke and Golden. Wenatchee, Chelan and Okanogan delegates expressed keen interest in this announcement and agreed that a large delegation of Washington state tourists would visit the main line centres for the official opening.

A Revelstoke committee of Lyle Boyle, Alderman Keegan and Earl Dickey was appointed to investigate all phases of this tourist station and report its findings to the directors as soon as possible.

Revelstoke, Kelowna and Penticton were represented at this Wenatchee conference. The Kelowna delegates were delighted to find such enthusiasm rampant concerning the opening of the Big Bend. This is the biggest publicity event staged in the interior of B.C. for years and is expected to bring thousands of tourists from all parts of North America.

The Canadian delegation to Wenatchee was as follows: Revelstoke: Ald. Keegan, Earl Dickey, Jack Waby and George Chelan; Kelowna: R. G. Rutherford, trail association secretary; J. B. Spurrier, director of the B.C. Tourist Council for the provincial government; H. E. Martin, of Washington; G. A. Sutherland and Game Warden W. R. Maxson. Penticton: L. J. Wood.

ONION SURPLUS

TO COUNCIL

Seek Suitable Location for Dumping Twelve Hundred Tons

The problem of the onion surplus again concerned the city council on Tuesday night. Information from storage houses indicates that a large proportion of the twelve hundred tons now held within the city limits must be dumped at once and help has been asked from the city in finding a location.

Alderman Horn reported that a committee of the council had searched for a satisfactory dumping ground for this large surplus. He pointed out that the onions will have to be covered in some manner. Two gulleys on Knox Mountain would seem to be satisfactory and the onions could be covered by a scraper. There are also two bits of water land within the boundaries of Glenmore which would seem to be suitable, if permission could be obtained from Glenmore.

Mayor McKay pointed out that the dumping problem was not the city's but that the city is interested through a health and nuisance point of view. He was endeavoring to co-operate with the owners of the onions in finding a suitable place to dispose of them. The responsibility, however, is not the city's.

Day Request Considered to be Not in Public Interest—Day Petition is Filed

The city council on Monday night took a firm stand against the request of Mr. Cameron Day that the zoning bylaw be amended to permit undertaking parlors to be conducted in residential areas of the city. The council decided that such a step would not be in the public interest.

Mr. Day previously had submitted a lengthy petition advocating such a change but, after threshing the matter out thoroughly in committee, the council adopted the following resolution:

"We do not consider it would be in the public interest to grant the petition for an amendment to the City of Kelowna Zoning Bylaw 1938 to enable funeral homes to be operated in residential zones and that the said petition be received against the resolution."

The council, however, did instruct the city clerk to inform Mr. Day that he might appeal to the board of appeal and to co-operate with him in every possible manner, should he decide to take his case to the appeal board.

The situation arose following the purchase of Cadder House by Mr. Day for the purpose of converting it into a funeral home. Under the zoning bylaw funeral homes are not permitted in residential areas.

The Kelowna zoning bylaw is modelled on one prepared by the Dominion government as a model for all cities in Canada to follow.

CLAM BAKE

Thousand Persons Gather for Annual Sportsmen's Feed and Consume 5,500 Pounds of Clams

Kelowna was well represented at the 22nd annual Cashmere Sportsmen's Association clam feed at Cashmere, Wash., on Wednesday morning. About 1,000 persons sat down at one sitting. Those who made the trip south from the Orchard City were R. G. Rutherford, J. B. Spurrier, H. F. Chapin, J. N. Cushing, Wally McSmith, Rod McRae and C. W. Sutherland and Game Warden W. R. Maxson, life members of the association.

Rev. E. R. Attebery, of Grace Methodist church, Seattle, was the main speaker and chose as his house motto, "Hunting in the European Jungles."

Other B.C. visitors included J. G. Cunningham, B.C. game commissioner, who spoke briefly, Governor Clarence D. Martin, of Washington, who was an honored guest. Among the entertainers, Tom Whitted, singing cowboy of Hereford, Ore., was the chief attraction.

The menu included 5,500 pounds of clams, 40 pounds of beef, 26 pounds of coffee, 33 pounds of sugar, 4 cases of milk, 130 pounds of butter, 90 pounds of cheese, 10 gallons of dill pickles, 48 pounds of crackers, 36 gallons of beans, 250 dozen beans, 1,000 apple turnovers, plenty of apples, corn meal, salt and pepper.

Main feature of the big event was the efficiency of those in charge, for all the tables were cleared away and a platform erected twenty minutes after the feed was concluded.

Rev. Attebery proved a revelation to the Canadian listeners in his outspoken ideas. He is a world war veteran and chaplain of Seattle's National Guard and did not hesitate to warn them that this is a part in the world struggle.

"We must recognize the God-given privilege we have and realize that the big thing in the world is not just peace . . . it is peace with justice and right," he declared.

Ratepayers Approve Proposed Sewer Construction by a Vote of Three Hundred and Ninety-four to Two Hundred and Three—Proposed Construction will Take Seven Months, Giving Employment to Fifty Men—Will Practically Complete City Sewerage

KELOWNA property owners gave their stamp of approval to the $85,000 sewer construction bylaw yesterday when 399 cast their ballots in favor and 203 indicated their opposition. The bylaw needed a three-fifths majority to pass and the above figures give it a comfortable margin of thirty-one votes over the required total.

The purpose of the vote is to give the city council authority to proceed with the issuance of $85,000 debenture bonds carrying three and three-quarter per cent interest. The bonds will be of the serial type and will be repayable over a period of twenty years. The city council is confident that the issue will bring at least par.

The sewer construction which will now be undertaken will complete the coverage of the city from Harvey avenue south to and including Christleton. One or two small stretches will remain in this district but it is anticipated that these can be built out of current revenue when the need arises.

A few outlying and thinly populated sections of the city will remain without sewerage after the proposed construction is completed. The sewerage problem which has been something of a bugbear in this city for some years now bids fair to being solved. Health officials have claimed that many of the septic tanks are in a very unsatisfactory condition and make fertile soil for the spread of any epidemic which may start. Much of the soil throughout the city has become polluted and this too, adds to possibility of unsatisfactory health conditions.

It is estimated that the proposed construction will take about seven months to complete and will give work to a crew of fifty men over that period. Members of the city council last evening expressed their pleasure at the result of the vote. "While we are extremely gratified that the ratepayers supported the action of the council," Mayor G. A. McKay stated, "we are more pleased that Kelowna is going to have satisfactory and safe sanitary conditions and the danger of serious epidemics probably will be averted."

Five hundred and ninety-nine property owners cast their ballots on Wednesday. Only property owners were entitled to vote on this money bylaw. There are approximately eight hundred and eighty property owners in the city. There were only two spoiled ballots which in both cases were rejected both for and against the bylaw.

Mayor Names City Representative to Investigate Parking Problem

The parking problem in the city received some attention from the city council on Monday night when Mayor McKay announced that he was appointing a committee of the council to act with representatives of the senior and junior boards of trade to go into the matter fully.

The committee, His Worship stated, would consider all phases of parking and study the existing bylaw with a view of suggesting amendments to it, which would make it more effective. Parking conditions have reached a deplorable state in the city and the committee is formed for the purpose of rectifying that condition.

Alderman J. H. Horn was named as chairman. The committee will include Alderman Parkinson and City Engineer Blakeborough as the other city representatives.

Ultimatum Given by City
To Trade Licence Holders

"Pay Up!" Council Tells Delinquents, "Or Deal with City Solicitor"

If outstanding trade licence fees are not paid by Monday, March 18, drastic action will be taken by the city to collect them, it was decided by the city council on Monday night.

It was drawn to the attention of the council by the licence inspector that a large number of the trade licence holders had failed to renew their licences for the current year. The list included some of the largest businesses in the city as well as some of the most prominent individuals and professional men.

A short but pointed discussion resulted in the council deciding that one week be given the delinquents to renew their licences and, should any of the fees remain unpaid at that time, the city solicitor should immediately be instructed to proceed to collect them. The city was determined the two matters must be cleared up immediately.

After a sharp discussion the council decided that Mr. Ferguson should be named as the city solicitor to collect the fees.

Guest Editors Welcome

This week we welcome as our guest editorial writers the members of the journalism class of the Kelowna High School. The editorials appearing on this page and the r p m column have been written by the members of that class although the writers' names have been withheld at the request of the students themselves. The material on this page has been written and proofed by the students. The Courier welcomes the opportunity of co-operating in this manner with the young writers and trusts that the experience will prove of some benefit in furthering their studies.—The Editor.

The School and the Public

In the days of monks and monasteries when education was confined within cloister walls, the students were completely isolated from the outside world. In this modern age, students form an integral part of every city, town and village. In the days of monastic education little was known of the students or of the work which they were doing. In the Middle Ages students were regarded by the townspeople as clownish minstrels and nuisances. Although the attitude of the public has changed radically, there is still cause to wonder how much of the old idea of exclusiveness still remains.

The school is indeed making a noticeable effort to bridge the gap. For example, here in Kelowna one day each year is "open day"—on which citizen and student can mingle on common footing. Not only is the public welcome just this one day but also according to school law, any day in the year. This is a feature which helps the public to understand to a greater extent the student and his problems. Later, when the student takes his place with the citizen, the younger and the older can work along side by side, with understanding and helpfulness for one another.

The Journalism class also plays its part as can be seen from the fact that it has been given the privilege of taking over this editorial page of The Courier so that it may voice the feelings and ideas of the High School.

An annual event in the Kelowna High School is the presentation of the school plays. This is the best way the public has of seeing the talent that the school possesses.

Bi-weekly the Kelowna High School presents its radio broadcast over station CKOV. This program features High School Highlights and sports news, with a guest soloist or speaker.

One of the largest and most important organizations in the school is the Publications Club, which is in charge of the Naitaka, the school paper. This is distributed all over B.C. by exchanges with other school papers, many of which are helpful in passing on new ideas for the improvement of our paper.

Another noteworthy feature showing the interest which is being taken in school work, is the appearance of the High School Highlights each week in the Kelowna Courier and Capital News, and bi-weekly in the Vancouver Daily Province. The write-ups give the student not only an opportunity to have his efforts published in a real newspaper, but also confidence in what he is doing. The Highlights enable the public to keep in closer contact with the activities and achievements of their school.

Students of the school sometimes fear that the public really knows very little about school activities. We would say without hesitation that all wideawake citizens of Kelowna are most certainly interested in the Kelowna High School. However, many are interested, but not in a practical way as they should be. A live interest would lead to more tangible results than a mere pride in local schools, praiseworthy though this may be. It will take the combined efforts of an interested school and public to produce a sound relationship which, after all, is the true basis of education.

Apprenticeship System

One wonders how much more interest employers would show in the apprenticeship system if they knew the advantages it holds for them. Many Senior High School students with good standing are eager to learn a trade. To carry out their desires it is necessary to obtain the full co-operation of all the employers.

The Kelowna Junior Board of Trade is doing its small but effective bit towards obtaining positions as apprentices for students but it cannot help to any great extent without the co-operation of the business men themselves.

Just here it would be worth while pointing out a system of apprenticeship education which has been successfully adopted in some countries. Under this system, during a student's high school years he studies an occupation as well as his regular educational courses. As he continues on in high school this vocational or occupational learning would increase inversely as his academic education decreased until in the end his school education might have diminished to an hour or so each day. The rest of his time he would be well on his way to a good job by having an apprenticeship. This method although it would take much longer for a student to get his high school graduation would eliminate the sudden change from high school life to public life and would establish him in a firm occupation, which is the chief object of the system.

Apprenticeship starts boys off on a life career, keeps them at home and gives a specialized training. In British Columbia for the year 1938-39 there was nearly $7,000,000 spent on unemployment. Some of the unemployed are educated men who through lack of funds were unable to continue their education. If there had been openings, as apprenticeships when they stopped school, B.C. would not be faced with such a large relief expenditure as it has today.

In the modern school the course of studies is so arranged that students have a much more practical knowledge of business life than in previous years. As an illustration might be mentioned some of these subjects: commercial (including shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping); practical arts (woodwork, metal work, electricity, and cooking and sewing); vocational mathematics dealing with the natural resources and different occupations of our country).

Thus it can be seen that much already has been done, but this pioneering should be a challenge to all concerned to carry to an effective conclusion a project which ultimately cannot but result in good to the country as a whole.

Extra Curricular Activities

"School" means something a great deal different from the eight periods a day, spent in the classroom. Extra curricular activities which cover everything from the printing of the school paper to the fast game of six-man-football, stretches this day to a point beyond the ability of the time-table to measure. In fact, there is no comparison between the school day of the present and that of a few years ago. To some critics of the modern school, the extra curricular activities seem like wasted time. But in school today, we have blended the hours of work and play. We now put our knowledge into practical work.

Teachers as well as pupils play a big part in extra curricular activities, and success is due to their constant encouragement. In many cases, the school day of the teacher and student really starts at eight a.m. and continues until after five or six p.m.

In the good old days of strict schoolmasters, the teacher's day ended when the students were let out, about four o'clock. Today our teachers often come early and stay late. Helping students in home economics, manual training, sports, science, track, dramatics, publications, and art is part of every school teacher's life, an important part too. At all school parties, hikes, out of town games and school functions of all kinds, there must be a chaperon. This takes numerous evenings of the teacher's time. Saturdays, too, are often taken up by track or play practices.

Students also give freely of their time after school hours, in the attempt at making this institution a better one to attend. The High School radio program, produced and arranged by students, is one feature which is growing in popularity. The aim of this interesting project is to acquaint the public with the general working of the school, and also give students an opportunity to use their talent.

Another phase of important educational work carried on by pupils outside of school hours, is that of the journalism class, who interview people on various matters, and attend meetings as reporters. The journalism class is also interested in the school newspaper, which is published bi-weekly by the Publications Club. The paper provides an outlet for suitable material which this class may write.

To uphold the school's honor in the sports field, friendly competitions with other schools are arranged for both girls' and boys' teams of basketball, baseball and other games.

Many of the clubs such as first aid, home nursing, photography and dramatics, operate after school hours, necessitating a great deal of work from the students. In some cases, for instance with the Dramatic Club which produces plays annually, the profit made from performances, is given to the Student Council to be used for school purposes. The success of these affairs depends upon wholehearted support of both the school and the public.

Another body, the Student Council, is most important in school life. The Council governs the school. It has a controlling hand in all school activities such as financing clubs, sports and school parties.

All this work does not go unrewarded for at the end of each year the school gives awards to the students who have shown themselves worthy of the High School major award. This consists of a large "K"—eight inches tall, and a diploma.

In all directions old dividing lines between curricular and extra curricular activities, between school and public life are fading away. Indeed, a student's school life and home life are closely connected, the school now taking over many of the duties in the training of a student, that the home formerly did. The efficiency with which extra curricular activities are carried on, can only be maintained by co-operation between teacher, student and public.

We invite those critics of the modern school who still think that work is not taken seriously in the High Schools to come around and investigate during the school day.

Guidance

An outstanding addition to British Columbia's new program of studies for elementary and high schools was the section known as Guidance. The educators of the province, feeling that there was a real need among students for a more systematized knowledge of their school and community, the opportunities offered by them, and the best way of making use of such opportunities, decided that a chance should be given for open discussion of such matters.

One of the main purposes of Guidance is to let the students and teachers talk situations over and come to an agreement with one another. The subjects to be discussed may include sports, social activities in the school, school rules and regulations and also outside activities which may concern the pupils. Because of the difference in interests between boys and girls they have been separated so that subjects may be freely and thoroughly discussed without loss of time to anyone. A typical discussion may be centered about the subject of who is to buy a mirror for the boys' washroom—the School Board or the boys themselves. After many lengthy arguments pro and con, it may be decided that furnishing a new school is not the responsibility of the students and so a delegation will be sent to the principal who will generally see that the wish of the students is granted if it is within reason. The students may make a decision but obviously the approval of the teachers must be obtained before it may be adopted.

In addition to the discussions there is a definite program of work which aims at teaching the pupil to meet wisely difficult situations he may have to face—whether in matter of morals and conduct, or in seeking for positions. This usually consists of a series of reports presented by the teacher or the students. In this way the pupils learn what is required of them if they are to become proficient in any trade. Other discussions may centre around foreign or local problems and their effects on students.

The Guidance class is of great value to every student because during this period he is given a chance to get up on his feet and express his own opinion on matters that concern him. This will give him self-confidence, an asset to anyone. It also brings teachers and students to a better understanding.

Most school activity rests in the hands of the Guidance classes and because of this the students are given a certain amount of responsibility. This will be a large factor in the developing of character. A better school will result from better students.

The average student realizes the benefit to be derived from his Guidance class, and therefore gives it the same serious attention as he does other subjects. Indeed, the Guidance period is often a high spot in the school day.

On all sides one hears of the necessity of a concerted effort on Canada's part to carry the war through to a successful conclusion. In the first place no one wanted the war but since we have it we should all share equally the responsibility.

While it may be true that "they also serve who only stand and wait", as far as the Senior High School pupils are concerned there is a feeling that in times like these, it is possible to carry the "waiting" too far. One solution may be found in the association known as the Junior Red Cross.

The local society is a branch of the Red Cross Society, with F. T. Marriage, Principal of the Elementary School at the head. Chairman of the National Junior Red Cross committee is Col. G. G. Nasmith, C.M.G., and Miss Jean E. Browne is director and also editor of "The Canadian Red Cross Junior," a magazine published for the benefit of all those belonging to the Junior Red Cross League. In each province there is an official to whom anyone may write for information concerning the Red Cross.

The Red Cross on the white ground was first used in 1864 as the emblem of a society which brought help to soldiers wounded in the Great War, but the Red Cross has come to mean more than the relief of the suffering in battle. It now stands also for the prevention of suffering from disease. Its greatest aim now is to promote health and goodwill in action.

In order that help may be given to those who need it, Juniors make contributions to a common fund. Not all administration costs are met by the Senior Red Cross from their own funds. The money contributed by the Juniors is used to help other children. The child who has learned to protect his own health and that of others, and who has learned to serve, is essentially a good citizen. The responsibility which he must take as a member or as an officer in his club gives him further training in citizenship. Through the Junior Red Cross, the members not only learn the great lessons of goodwill toward other children in their own country, but there is also a growing feeling of comradeship among the members of the Junior Red Cross throughout the world.

A number of interested Kelowna citizens have urged that more be done towards developing Red Cross activities in the schools, but as Vancouver headquarters will sanction no more material, the work is limited in scope.

J. H. Horn, president of the local Red Cross Society, recently returned from Vancouver, after attending the Provincial council meeting. While there, he discussed the shortage of wool in Canada, which is causing higher prices in woollen material, and wool for knitting purposes. These conditions require immediate attention if we are to help our soldiers win the war. As yet, this problem is by no means solved.

There seems to be still another problem, however. The Junior Red Cross has been developed especially for juniors. The Senior Red Cross is composed of adults. Into which picture does the High School fit? Senior pupils are anxious to help. At present the need for help is not so great but how long will present conditions continue? Is there nothing that can be done while there is yet time?

THIS WEEK THIS COLUMN is the product of the journalism class of the local high school. The entire editorial material on this page. The following column has been written, I understand, by several students—r.p.m.

WITH DUE APOLOGIES TO Mr. Stephen Leacock, who firmly asserts there is no such thing as the Average Person, we present a slant on the Average Pupil. First the Boy. He is of normal build, normal mentality, and has, possibly, normal powers of observation and deduction. At times he is energetic enough to contribute to some social function—plays, newspaper, clubs, radio program—but often he succumbs to dread Lassitude. His interest in himself, the school, the community, and the relationship existing between the three is frequently of the most sketchy kind. . . . The Average Girl in many respects is similar to the Boy. She has most certainly more interest in herself; and yet she works on extra-curricular activities roughly ten times as much and hard as the Boy. Of course, the Boy resents this statement. He feels injured. Truth always does sting. But then, we might ask ourselves—what would the school be like without the Male? . . . Both the Boy and Girl are conscious of one another—an idea which may be ridiculed by an adult. Yet this aspect of life plays a minor part in the make-up of the Average Student. It is not Man's destiny to live alone; nor is it Woman's lot to let him then, from and say "bosh!" I'll do just good, you who have grown old disgracefully. You have not, say "Oh, how amusing! Those children! Taki Taki!" . . .

NOW THAT MARCH IS HERE, can one refrain from thinking thoughts of spring? As Shakespeare had it, "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to— and spring is here— it must be—bird singing and flowers just indicate a too happy Saturday night. . . . grass growing, vacant looks around school (we refer, of course, to the absence of Richter Street trees). Then there are other signs of spring—budding trees, budding flowers, and budding poets—as the season progresses, however, these become blooming trees, blooming flowers, and blooming nuisances. But we can forgive spring poets. The freshness of the air, the sweet smell of new born foliage, the clean refreshing warmth of spring rains all do something to one that can scarcely be explained—spring fever. Students gazing longingly toward the distant sun-bleached hills. . . . teachers, eyes strained, nervously, watching fussy clouds drift by. . . . gardeners working on bowed shovel handles. . . . girl and boy drifting along some sunny pastoral lane. . . . Ah spring! . . .

Spring, spring, It's the darndest thing— When birds sing and On fluttering wing, And love will bring The solemn ring For bells so soon Of bells in June. . . .

THESE MAD MARCH DAYS produce a lot of fun for those who don't wear hats, but a lot of grief for those who do. To see a portly gentleman puffing along after an elusive hat becomes extremely hilarious. To be seen chasing a fugitive chapeau becomes excruciatingly embarrassing. But March winds have other attributes besides blowing hats around. Small boys who fly kites know this. Incidentally, boys are not the only ones who indulge in this pleasant pastime. When would Ben Franklin have been without his kite? And now that election time is here, where would our politicians be without a bountiful supply of kites to send up? Old timers delight in telling us of the kite flying episodes of the local Chinese residents in old days. There were most elaborate works of art that would brighten the heart of any boy. But the greatest benefit of March is that now we can have so much fun telling those who annoy us to "go fly a kite!" . . .

A FUNNY THING, RADIO. . . . While admittedly it has succeeded in popularizing the modern type of "swing" music, it has also provided ammunition for the cynical plebeians. For radio, unfortunately, in its attempts to please, brings us all types of popular music, and not only good, but bad, and indifferent—mostly bad. Probably if Beethoven, Mozart, Wagner, or any other time-proven composer wrote bad music, the great masses of music-lovers never heard it, for its initial reception determined its number of performances. Today, therefore, the student of popular music must tune his radio with discretion. . . . No offending noise originates from the musicians under the baton, for instance, of Andre Kostelanetz, who is one of the greatest of modern leaders and incidentally, a "Swinger of the Classics". Don't pass him up on that account; though. His arrangement of "Moonlove", an excerpt from Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, takes on strange new beauty, as does Debussy's "My Reverie", or the recent "Isle of May", culled from Tchaikovsky's D Major String Quartette, and none of his versions are to be thought of as "jazzy". We are inclined to agree with the commentator who said: "The way the classics are swung nowadays would make even the old masters turn over in their graves." In any case, be tolerant. . . .

WHO'S WHO IN THE school's "hair". The subject is misleading. We are accustomed to looking at the people who rush around with list in hand, pencil behind ear, worried look on face—and saying to ourselves, "There's a Worker". Let's forget the Blowhard; let's meet the Silent Worker. . . . Always he is cast on the person who does his or her work, without talking, by the envious and lazy majority who have "ideas", but who leave the work to the industrious minority. . . . Ron Wilkinson—energetic news reporter on the newspaper; Margaret Pettigrew—enthusiastic artist on the same paper; the Radio Program helpers, Lydia Blackwood—organizer of choir; Dot Wood—news announcer; Adelaide McWilliams—pianist, are only a few of the miniature army which works for the direct or final good of the school. . . . These, as well as the many others not mentioned here, are the "School Spirit" really acquires some meaning when these people's names come up. . . .

IF YOU READ THE "High Spots" in The Courier, you will be aware that many Kelowna High students have recently journeyed to the schools of Vernon and Penticton to play basketball. In doing so, they had the opportunity of observing present trends of modern school modelling. One noticeable innovation in the Vernon High is that all classroom doors are equipped with a small, glassed-in peephole. Not for any diabolical purpose, however, but presumably so one can determine without opening the door which teacher is in the room. Critics we admit it was an advantage, but wondered if its uses would compensate for the embarrassing situation arising when a pupil happened to look out the hole at precisely the same moment a teacher was peeping in. . . . We were reminded of the story of a biologist, who, having tried unsuccessfully to teach a monkey to play ball, finally decided to leave the animal in a room with a bat, a ball, and a glove. He closed the door and waited a moment. Then, silently, he stooped and peered through the keyhole. He found himself staring into an intent brown eye. . . . Not wishing to make a monkey of anyone, we will not attempt to draw too close a parallel between the situations. . . .

A WORD—A LAMENT, perhaps, for the former High School, now housing Grades 3 and 4. Upon a visit to the building we seem to see many resemblances to ourselves. There's Ryan over there in the corner making a little sand-house, his little gray coat tucked under his little knees, his little hatch of fuzz bent over in an attempt of extreme concentration. He's building a long road beside the house. Look, there's Bob! Fume with a set of wooden blocks; and Jim Clement, with a slip of paper and a pencil, saying something to a wee girl who looks suspiciously like Joan Pantan, even to her cynical chuckle. His words, as she tries to concentrate on a supplementary reader, are "Deadline Friday! Yeh—anyway and get a committee meeting for Wednesday, will you, Joanny?" (Incidentally, he still talks that way). There's a little fellow with a long face and dreamy attitude. Turn to Page 3, Story 1.

Education Given Wide Survey Before Peachland Women's Institute

Many Speakers Give Insight Into All Phases of Education in Schools of Today—C.C.F. Hold Meeting

Education was the theme of the Peachland Women's Institute at their meeting held on Friday afternoon in the municipal hall, with Mrs. G. Dobb, convenor of the education and better schools committee in charge of arrangements. Inspector T. G. Carter and two of the Peachland teachers, A. McDonald and C. Harrison spoke, while four high school pupils gave three minute speeches on school activities.

Lloyd Sutherland, president of the students' council spoke of the work of this club, distributing the various offices among the pupils to give each a chance to serve, having monitors for special duties, and a picture drive to get pictures for the school. John Gummow, editor of the high school paper, expressed his gratification at the results they had been able to achieve. Everybody has a job and the work on the paper brings out the spirit of cooperation. The school had 95 copies had and all had been sold, and he thanked the public and the advertisers for their support.

Group Plays

Dorothy Miller as president of the dramatic club told of presenting a group of plays, where again everyone had something to do. Plans were being made to enter the drama festival.

Donald Miller spoke of the sports activities of the school, basketball, badminton and volleyball, being popular. There were also two physical education periods a week. Softball would start soon while a high school tournament with teams from outside points competing had been arranged to be held here March 18.

G. Harrison paid tribute to the Women's Institute for their support in community effort. The school was clearly tied to the community and homes. The primary object of education was health and a happy outlook through busy activity. Changes and improvements in the school were suggested by the speakers.

The present day aims of physical education were outlined by A. McDonald. The old Greek and Roman aims of physical beauty and military achievements and a later objective of a more abundant spiritual life were traced with some of these earlier objectives embodied in the present plan for physical education work. It aimed at health, skill, co-ordination and leadership with enjoyment and free expression a part of the work. It plays a very important part in the school system and Peachland was fortunate enough in having one of the finest halls for the pupils to use in their physical education work.

Cooperative Game

The game of education is a cooperative one, Mr. Carter stated, and this age is a bewildering one to those who have not adapted to it. There was so much more to learn in the time at school that better training was required. There was a place for every child in the world and children are the product of heredity and environment. A good teacher, he said is one who goes so slowly that only good habits are formed. Most parents are unprepared for the training of children and sometimes mistakes are made in training in the early years. The teachers have the advantage in training, and that child has the best chance when homes and school work together.

The best educated person, Mr. Carter continued is one who is at home in all situations he meets in life. The fault does not lie with the child if it does not fit in with those who have the responsibility of its care.

New Report Cards

Mr. Carter distributed the new report cards and discussed the various subjects, language, reading the most important subject for every other subject depended on reading, art and music was most important, more use and more beauty making life more worth while. Practical arts were also important in training the pupil to use his hands. "The care of children," the speaker concluded, "is the first concern of the race."

A group of six girls sang "Little Sir Echo" and "Over the Rainbow" very sweetly. Helen and Irene Sundt, Helen Long, Marjorie Hawkesley, Ruth Fulk and Joyce Crookes. They were accompanied by Mrs. G. Long.

At the business session prior to the program the date of the Fall Fair was set for August 29, the last Thursday in August. It was decided to cooperate with other institutes in the South Okanagan and Similkameen to prepare a booklet of apple recipes to be distributed in the Old Country. It was decided to ask for chrysanthemums from the experimental farm. Mrs. E. H. Trimble offered to act as kitchen convenor for the next three months.

O. L. Jones Speaks

O. L. Jones, candidate for the C.C.F. in the federal election charged that there was no difference between Conservatives and Liberals at a well attended meeting held here on Thursday evening, March 7. Big business was in charge and capitalism was the root of all evil. He attacked a system which would allow an artificial scarcity by destroying food. Socialism was based on production for use and it was the only solution for present day problems. A mule has more sense than human beings," he charged, "for a mule wouldn't lie down and die in the midst of abundance."

F. Mossop of Summerland and A. Dobb of Westbank preceded the speaker. Mr. Mossop dealing particularly with the fruit industry. The present member Grotle Stirling had done all he could for the fruit growing, he felt, but nothing had been accomplished, the fault was with the system and not the man.

Mr. Dobb took the floor to wax eloquent about the "Big bad boys of St. James St." who were running the country. He affirmed his stand for the C.C.F. as a protest against the treatment received from the Liberals and Conservatives.

H. MacNeill acted as chairman of the evening and praised the work of O. L. Jones in public life, emphasizing the work with the T.O.C.H.

Masons Entertain

The Masonic Lodge entertained at a social evening and dance on Friday evening, March 9, with a large crowd present. The athletic hall was attractively decorated for the occasion. Court whist was played with Mrs. H. Carter and Miss M. Goldham winning the ladies' prizes and J. Garaway and T. Recco the gentlemen's prizes. Dancing was enjoyed until the early hours following the cards and supper. G. Garlinge, Master of the lodge, and Mrs. Garlinge received the guests and a beautiful bouquet of spring daffodils and fern was presented to Mrs. Garlinge during the evening.

Hold Bridge Drive

A bridge drive in aid of the linen fund of the Kelowna hospital was held on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The crowd was smaller than usual but the evening proved most enjoyable with first prizes going to Mrs. W. E. Clements and G. Watt and consolation prizes being won by Mrs. T. Redstone and W. E. Clements.

Red Cross Active

Red Cross workers have been active during the two months since the first of the year according to the convenor, Mrs. A. Snells. A large shipment was sent out January while the February parcel of finished articles included 30 mattress pads, 12 Hampton pads, 15 pneumonia jackets, 10 sweaters, 12 socks, 6 pillow slips and 6 bed gowns.

Fire Extinguished

A fire from a spark from the chimney and which caught the shingles of H. Hardy's home was quickly extinguished on Sunday morning. The blaze was first noticed by a neighbor, H. E. Trine, who ran to warn Mr. Hardy and his sister Mrs. J. Lingo who were eating their lunch. The garden hose was attached to the tap and with other neighbors quickly on the scene the blaze was soon out.

Water Bailiff

Frank Bradley was appointed water bailiff for the season at a meeting of the Peachland Irrigation District held on Tuesday afternoon. The vacancy was caused by the enlistment of Neil Evans who is with the Seaford Highlanders now in Toronto.

A number of Peachland and Westbank members of the Trepanier Masonic Lodge accompanied B. F. Gummow, district deputy grand master to Penticton on Tuesday, March 5, for the visit of the Grand Master of B.C., Dr. Hall, of Nanaimo.

Rev. W. Dovey, Rev. J. H. Gillam, E. H. Hunt, H. Sutherland and G. Watt attended the Presbytery meeting of the United Church held at Penticton March 5.

ONION HOLDINGS HERE 2,168 TONS

Nearly Half Interior Surplus in Kelowna District

Of the total stock of onions held in common storage in the interior of B.C., 2,168 tons were in Kelowna and Westbank, figures revealed by the inspection branch for the end of February indicated. The total onion crop balance in the interior at February 29 was 5,170 tons.

These holdings were situated as follows: Lytton to Chase, 120; Salmon Arm to Sorrento, 60; Armstrong, 180; Vernon, 240; Oryana, Winfield and Okanagan Centre, 168; Kelowna and Westbank, 2,168.

Since the announcement was first made that there would probably be a dump of nearly 5,000 tons of onions in the interior, due to the surplus production and lack of the export market, some of the surplus onions have been moved out of the city limits but there is still a large quantity held right in the city. At the coast, stocks on hand amount to 175 tons, while there are another 39 tons of onions in the Kootenay, the inspection branch reports.

HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISM

by PHILIP J. KITLEY

Teacher in charge of the Journalism Class, Kelowna High School.

Last week a dozen or so high school students received an initiation into the perplexities and problems of an editorial writer's life. The result is to be found in this week's editorial page which is apart from featured articles, the work of the Kelowna High School Journalism Class together with one or two members of the Publications Club. Mr. H. P. MacLean is to be commended as much for his willingness to "take a chance" as for his patience and painstaking interest in the progress of these young writers.

The course they have been studying for a matter of six months was outlined for B.C. schools just a year or two ago. Only one other interior high school is at present experimenting with it. Another school attempted the course but later dropped it. The Kelowna High School is well satisfied with the progress of the course and hopes to be able to continue offering it in future years.

Members of this year's class are: Wilma Day, Nancy Reid, Philip Russell, Lyle Sangar, Bob Spall, Daphne Bell, Floyd Caza, Florence Ferguson, Gertrude Gorse, Norma Goudie, Joan Johnson and Valentine Rampone. These did the editorial writing for page two and pooled their results. The Publications Club is represented in R.P.M.'s column by three of its members, Bob Burke, editor of the school paper, Jim Clement, last year's editor, and Ralph Peasey, reporter for the Senior Matric class. These, among others, are interested in school journalism, but find it impossible at present to fit it into their time table.

The course in high school journalism springs from one of the most important changes to be noted in B. C.'s new Program of Studies for Elementary and High Schools—the emphasis on the practical nature of education. Hitherto at Winnipeg where he was arrested. At that time Woodsworth believed in the use of force but has modified his views since then.

However, for years the C.C.F. advocated the repeal of Section 98 which had been introduced to strengthen the hand of the authorities following that Winnipeg rebellion. The Liberals repeated that act but if it had not been repealed then there would have been no need for the padlock law.

Fruit Problems

At the outset of his remarks, Mr. Stirling dealt with the fruit and vegetable industry and the protection which the Conservative government has given this industry through the "proper use of the tariff." In 1928, he stated, the Liberals swept away the protection but in 1930 the Bennett government started a machinery again "and for five years he had a free market for our products in our country without a glut of products from another country."

When the Mackenzie King government went back into power in 1935, the prime minister hurried to Washington and signed a treaty which the Bennett government refused to sign, he declared, wiping out several duties, cutting the ad valorem duty and reducing the values for duty. "In 1938, the value for duty was out again and Canada gave up a third of the preferences gained in the Ottawa agreements." Also, the length of time for the values for duty were set out for the first time. We have suffered in that way."

He pointed out that the Liberal party is one in rating protectionists and free traders sitting cheek by jowl. The protectionists happen to be in the ascendancy at present but if the free traders reverse the situation he warned that it will be a calamity for the fruit trade.

Dunning's collapse he stated was due to a vicious attack on the former minister by Liberal free traders. "When the free traders control the Liberal party their heaven help us," he emphasized.

These same free traders are against marketing acts but he pointed out that none of the provincial acts would have come into being without the Dominion act first being tried by the Bennett government.

He promised that if the national government is returned to power that an investigation will be undertaken into the legal aspects of a Dominion marketing act and if at all possible the natural products marketing act will be re-enacted in a revised form, "to allow the farmer to become the master of his own destiny."

S. J. Remnant

At the three meetings, one of the prominent speakers in support of Hon. Grote Stirling was S. J. Remnant, Vancouver lawyer. He centered his remarks against Mackenzie King and his action in dissolving parliament in such a hurry.

"Mackenzie King is determined to pursue a lone course and it is unnecessary to arouse all these political animosities instead of trying to create a national unity. The Liberal leader promised that politics would not enter into war appointments, but only six out of 85 appointments to war boards were other than Liberal."

He denounced the Liberal administration for its unpreparedness to equip properly the enlisted soldiers and stated that the Seaforth's could be sent to Vancouver streets for months before they were provided with uniforms. At that, Vancouver persons subscribed nearly $10,000 to provide clothing and equipment for Vancouver units of the active service forces.

He pointed to the war contracts issued to Vancouver firms since the election date was announced. Either the government was ready with these contracts or deliberately held them up until the election was imminent or the prime minister has not been telling the truth that his government was prepared in this emergency, Mr. Remnant considered.

Mackenzie King's refusal to co-operate with the British government in 1938 and allow British air training schools to be established in Canada was an action which does poll tax, visits to the city council and other such problems.

More About JUNIOR BOARD

Donald Witham has been chosen board photographer. Walter Watson is again historian. Chas. Gaddes again assumes control of airport activities. Peter Murdoch is in charge of museum and archives work and Cliff Davis is to handle retail trade.

It is the plan of the directors that these committees will hold regular meetings, as far as possible, and all members interested will have an opportunity to attend.

Appointments Made
Since the last meeting, J. McClelland has accepted the post of recording secretary, Harold Whitmore is the corresponding secretary and H. J. Stevens is treasurer, once more. A. Lloyd-Jones was appointed to the directorate replacing H. J. Stevens.

The directors are laying plans for the annual convention of the B.C. Junior Board, which will be held in Kelowna the latter part of June. The dates have not yet been confirmed. A junior board smoker is in the offing and will probably be held in April.

The junior board accepted the offer of the Kelowna Youth Council to enter a debating team in a contest being arranged for this coming Sunday, March 17. The two members were not selected last Friday.

One of the features of last Friday's meeting was the quiz on motor traffic regulations, as conducted by Maurice Lane. Sergeant A. MacDonald of the provincial police was present and assisted Mr. Lane in the question period.

Mill Creek Refuse
George McKenzie introduced the subject of refuse being dumped into Mill Creek, which he termed a "good, open sewerage ditch." Dr. J. M. Hershey, another guest present, explained that this subject is under consideration and he hoped that he would soon be able to institute steps to clear up this creek from a sanitary point of view.

Five days before, he explained, the mouth of the creek had been tested and from a biological point of view the water was quite fit to drink. "Anything we can do is and will be done to alleviate any unsanitary conditions," he declared.

Malcolm Chapin pointed out that all the letters of the house numbers had not been placed, especially on Bernard avenue and he wished a letter written to the city council. Alderman R. F. Parkinson explained, however, that this subject had been taken up at the last council committee meeting and the city engineer instructed to carry out this job immediately.

The commendation of the junior board was ordered passed along to the city council on the erection of the new stop signs, but the young business men considered that car parking is allowed too close to these signs in many cases for them to be effective.

It was stated that the bylaw requires parking within fifteen feet of the sign and the recommendation of the meeting was that the bylaw be amended to leave a clearance of at least thirty feet.

A committee will investigate and make recommendations to council.

Aftermath of War Considered By United Church Presbytery

Kamloops - Okanagan Group Meeting at Pentiction Deals with War and What May be Expected Afterwards

Keynote of the sessions of the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was sounded at a banquet held in the assembly hall of the Pentiction United church on Tuesday night, March 5. At this session the speakers included both delegates to the conference, representatives of the Pentiction ministerial association, and Rev. W. G. Wilkins, of Pentiction. While practically all those who addressed the big gathering touched upon the war and its resultant crisis in both world and human affairs the "aftermath" of the conflict was given greater attention. In each instance the speakers voiced a hope for "better things" when the strife shall cease, not in point of conquest, but in man's conquest of his own social conditions.

Forceful Picture In the opening address of the session, Rev. W. G. Wilkins, who welcomed the delegates and visitors, gave a forceful, clear-cut picture of problems that Pentiction is endeavoring to meet, suggesting that others in their own spheres might also face these problems and that through cooperation a nationwide solution would be possible.

"I think we are falling down in our duty in respect to social services," said Rev. Wilkins, who instanced the appalling results from lack of adequate dental and similar care among young and old in Pentiction. "We in Pentiction are trying to build up a plan to overcome this," the chief minister stated. As second of the items of social welfare that require what was termed as more than casual consideration, Rev. Wilkins spoke of medical attention for those who are in no position to provide it for themselves. "It is a poor service," he said, stating that some cities provide complete service, which is not provided by the provincial authorities. "We are endeavoring to give some service, but as yet we are not giving medicines," he added.

Third item mentioned by Mr. Wilkins was what he spoke of as the inadequacy of relief allowance. "A lot of us are living happily," he said, "while others are living in a state of squalor," and to prove this the reverend outlined some local cases as follows: At the Wednesday afternoon session, following a discussion on pensions, Rev. H. A. Baines, of Golden, spoke on missions, referring to the 100th anniversary of the invention of the typewriter, which enabled the Indians from Hudson's Bay to the Rocky Mountains to read the Scriptures. The fall session of the Presbytery will be held at Kamloops, it was stated.

Days of Change Rev. R. R. Morrison, formerly pastor of the Pentiction United church and now at Kamloops, stirred the gathering with an address replete with feeling. "We are living in days of tremendous change," said Mr. Morrison at the outset of his address, he mentioning that he has always considered Pentiction would become the hub of the Okanagan, and that he was gratified to find this had now become true.

"Not so long ago I heard someone speak on 'The Garden of Friendship,' in which the speaker's friends had implanted shrubs of many kinds. The thought occurred to me that more than a year ago Mr. Chamberlain went to Munich to plant an olive branch, receiving another plant in exchange from Hitler. Great was Mr. Chamberlain's consternation when he found, upon getting back to Britain that what Hitler had given him was naught but poison ivy. "This poison ivy, this seed of destruction, was planted not with the commencement of the Hitler regime, but 40 years ago by a man who later died in an insane asylum, Nietzsche, were the roots of this poison ivy plant."

Speaking on behalf of the Pentiction Ministerial Association, of which he is the head, Rev. W. S. Beames, rector of St. Saviour's Anglican church, spoke highly of the fellowship existing among members of the clergy in Pentiction. "The work we have to do, the field we each have to work in, leaves room for the best we can each pour into it," said Mr. Beames.

Other speakers included Rev. Peter Connal, chairman of the Presbytery; Rev. J. C. Goodfellow, Rev. C. R. McGillivray and H. H. Boyle, Thomas Cunningham, chairman of the banquet, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the official board of the Pentiction United church.

Addressing a large congregation at the sessions of the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery of the United Church in Pentiction on Tuesday night, Rev. W. R. MacWilliams said that second generation, or Canadian-born, Japanese desire to be fully recognized as citizens of Canada. The speaker, who spent many years in Japan as a missionary, is well versed in Japanese problems.

Rev. C. W. Foggo, of Chase, addressed the session on "Theology and Life." Rev. W. R. Ashford, of Summerland, reported the church membership in the region as 4,000, and the Sunday school population to the delegates. At the Wednesday afternoon session, following a discussion on pensions, Rev. H. A. Baines, of Golden, spoke on missions, referring to the 100th anniversary of the invention of the typewriter, which enabled the Indians from Hudson's Bay to the Rocky Mountains to read the Scriptures. The fall session of the Presbytery will be held at Kamloops, it was stated.

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery of the United Church, Rev. J. H. Davies, B.D., Ph.D., was elected chairman. Rev. Wesley Miller, B.D., continued in office as secretary, and Rev. A. Pound, B.D., of Rutland, as treasurer. Rev. P. Connal was asked to act as chairman in the absence of Dr. Davies. The roll called, showing an attendance of 45 lay and ministerial delegates. Rev. J. A. Leslie, of Enderby, gave an outline of Dr. Slater's book, "Public Worship."

In the morning session, Dr. W. W. McPherson, of Kelowna, led the communion service assisted by four laymen, Messrs. Z. Parkes, R. McDonald, A. Ramsay and N. B. Runnels. The home mission report was presented by Rev. R. R. Morrison, of Kamloops, and the work of the Presbytery came under review. Rev. Hibbert, of Revelstoke, spoke upon the ministerial fund. The sessions continued until evening.

HOSPITAL POWER RATE REDUCED On Monday night the city council passed a new electric light and power rate bylaw, the only change being made is the reduction granted to the Kelowna general hospital which now obtains electricity for light and power purposes at two and a half cents per kilowatt hour.

ARREST YOUTHS THREE HOURS AFTER THEFT

Snatch Woman's Purse in the Dark and Run Away but Police Catch up with Them—Nine Months in Jail

Charged with theft from the person, two Penticton youths were arrested by provincial police officers at about midnight on Wednesday night, less than three hours after the crime of which they were accused occurred. Hearing of the charges against the young men resulted in sentences of nine months being imposed on each of the lads, and a stiff lecture from Magistrate G. A. McLelland.

It is reported that Mrs. Emily Whalen and Mrs. Connie De Paure were going toward St. Ann's church, on Fairview avenue in Penticton, at about 9:30 on Wednesday night, when the robbery occurred. The two accused are stated to have jumped out of the darkness and to have snatched Mrs. Whalen's purse, and then to have run off across some vacant lots in the neighborhood.

Immediately upon receiving word of the robbery, the provincial police commenced a search for men answering the descriptions of those committing the crime, this resulting in the arrest by Constable J. Deane of the two youths, while they were eating in a Penticton cafe.

Held on Thursday afternoon, the hearing of the case was continued until to criminal court, the boys pleading guilty to the crime. It is alleged that considerable violence was used in committing the crime. Police report the two boys were believed responsible for other crimes of similar nature occurring in this region in recent months. Both boys have records, it is alleged. In passing sentence, Magistrate McLelland stated that this conduct would not be tolerated, and that streets must be as safe for women at night as in the daytime.

O. L. Jones Continues Campaign Before Large Westbank Audience

Keen Interest Evidenced When C.C.F. Candidate for Yale Condemns Principle of Capitalism Because it Needs Scarcity

Keen interest was evidenced at Westbank last week when O. L. Jones, C.C.F. candidate for Yale, addressed a large meeting, and in his opening remarks, made clear to the gathering that he was not condemning individuals, but the principles of capitalism. He pointed out that experts are agreed that a new system of economics is absolutely necessary, as today we live in a land of plenty of an abundance that is overwhelming, embarrassing even, to the present system, yet we are part and parcel of a scheme which has brought about an artificial scarcity, and has subsidized idleness.

Before capitalism we lived, under the feudal system, which was a time of very real scarcity when the wants of the people could not be supplied. Everything was by hand, and productions were of necessity, slow. This was followed by the capitalistic system, which has produced the abundance existing today. Why then, is Canada not prosperous, the speaker asked? Canada exports her many products in too great quantities and vast quantities of coffee, cattle, and oranges are destroyed—even the produce in the Okanagan is destroyed or dumped because the system does not allow distribution for profit. Such abundance is essential to socialism, but not to capitalism, which already is largely a system of the past, because it has outlived its usefulness.

The speaker pointed out that England did not regulate her debt to the U.S.—the United States refused to allow her to pay in goods, which was the only way in which she could pay.

Unemployment
Going on to the problem of unemployment, Mr. Jones stated that the growth of modern machinery has been the cause of the human element receding farther and farther into the background—which it will continue to do still more under the present economic system with the inevitable result that unemployment will become more and more prevalent. Statistics show that families might enjoy a very high standard of living, according to the known resources of Canada, and could sustain affluence under right conditions.

Capitalism can never cure our present ills of hardship, distress and misery, Mr. Jones went on, and intelligent men are aware of this. He recognized that a great change is at hand, whether they regard it from a religious, a philosophical, or any other viewpoint.

As to the cost of the war today, the speaker expressed the view that the cost when the war should really start and continued by pointing out the staggering debt we must leave for our children to face for, he contended, it is utterly impossible to pay for all the cost of the war. Our products for the rest of our lifetimes would not be enough to pay the debt we owe already.

Socialized Industries
He explained the workings of a central bank of our own, and of the socialized industries which have not hurt anybody in the least. He added that no one in the world has been hurt by the advent of socialism—contrary to the constant warnings heard. Some of the aims of the C.C.F. were, the speaker said: health service for all, farm relief, housing scheme for all, abolition of taxation on land—taxes to be paid by those possessing the ability to pay; access to working capital by the workers for, he claimed, all credit is made by the primary producers and the workers, and they say the ones who should have access to it when necessary.

In reference to the war, Mr. Jones stated that Canada is in it and that Canada must see it through to the bitter end, and there can be no peace or security so long as Hitler, and men like him, are in a position to endanger the peace of the world.

Conscription is coming—and you and I know it. The C.C.F. opposes conscription of manpower and demands conscription of wealth first. Conscription of manpower is unjust, he went on, and dealt with the way in which it was evaded in Quebec and Quebec during the last war. Of the number registered under conscription in Ontario in the first draft, all but 82 per cent of the 92 per cent who claimed exemption, were granted it. In Quebec, 88 per cent claimed exemption, and all got it but 4 per cent.

Boys reaching military age (18), are entitled to vote, he contended, for if they are old enough to give their lives for their country surely they are old enough to cast their vote! Regarding the stand taken by the government that factories should make a profit of only 5 1/2 per cent from war contracts, the speaker revealed that it had been found impossible to place contracts at that figure from one end of Canada to the other, and that as a consequence, the order had been rescinded some two months ago. Now the sky will be the limit, as it was in the last war, he stated.

Live and Let Live
Our peace aims should be stated. We must re-establish the League of Nations on the principle of "live and let live" and terms must not be dictated, but negotiated over a period of years. To dictate them in a spirit of conquest, would be fatal to future peace, he went on.

In conclusion, Mr. Jones stated: "By your own efforts you can get out of this mess—there is no other way." The day of exploitation and of capitalism is definitely through." F. A. Dobbin was chairman of the meeting, and introduced the speaker in a few words, saying that it was unnecessary to say very much, as Mr. Jones is well known here. Many questions and comments were asked and given at the close of Mr. Jones' address. The hall was packed for the occasion.

McPHERSON CHATS CHURCH MATTERS

Gives Reason for Great Number of Churches Existing Today

Dr. W. W. McPherson resumed his chats with church members to the Young People's Society of the United church on Sunday evening, March 10.

He spoke of the reasons why there are so many churches and regretted that disagreements, often from trivial causes, divide groups of church members when a common loyalty to Christ should embrace them all. It is not necessarily ill-will that causes different denominations. People prefer different forms of church government and forms of sermons and ceremony.

The whole world looked with astonishment when the United church was formed in 1925 with three churches of different types coming together and being united profitably since.

The Methodist church known for its friendliness, the Congregationalist for its eloquent preachers, and many from the Presbyterian with its strict dignity and traditions, formed since John Knox's time, all united to build a prominent church. Charles Thorne, group leader, thanked Dr. McPherson.

Impromptu talks about Y.P.S. members and other topics were given by Jack Gerin of Rutland, Denis Barford, Bob Burks, Roy Little, Dexter Pettigrew, Les Johnstone, Walter Watson, Eric Olney, Lorne Matheson, Ernest Gordon, Charles Logan, David Gordon, "Bud" Stephens, Bob Kelly, Neville Jones, Harry Lawson and Miss Sylvia Bechtold.

Lloyd Taggart read Matthew 10: 5-20. Rutland and Baptist young people were guests as well as Mr. Sid Hubble, an elder. Nearly thirty attended gymnasium periods Wednesday, March 6th, and the Rutland Avenue Circle provided refreshments at the close.

GLACIER THRILLS UP B.C. COAST ARE DEPICTED

Mrs. Don Mundy, Noted B.C. Alpinist Takes the Canadian Club for Hazardous Trip up Mt. Silverthorne

Showing beautiful colored slides to depict the wonders of glaciers to be found within 250 miles of Vancouver, the beautiful flowers to be discovered up the British Columbia coast and the tremendous difficulties which beset those who attempt to scale the rocky fastnesses of B.C. peaks, Mrs. Don Mundy, noted B.C. alpinist held the complete attention of the Canadian Club of Kelowna at the Royal Anne on Thursday evening last.

Mrs. Mundy took her listeners by her descriptive talk and many colored slides, up the Klamakina river beset by rapids to a beautiful glacier which they ascended on the search for Mount Silverthorne. The scaling of this peak and the many delightful scenes held the audience spellbound throughout her hour and a half lecture.

Wild cranberry trees, Michaelmas daisies, tall ferns, skunk cabbage, lily pads, red heather and many other forms of wild plant life were thrown on the screen to show the wonders of nature even in that land of ice and snow.

Her pictures of the crossing of a turbulent stream, which passed at right angles to the snout of the glacier, by means of a single wire cable brought admiring gasps from the audience. The ascent of the glacier, with its giant crevasses, and its many shifting pitfalls was told clearly by the pictures. Steep terraces at the sides of the glacier, the 200 square miles of ice and snow, and the wonderful views from many vantage points proved decidedly interesting.

But the high point of her talk came when she described the attack of a mother bear who intended to save her cubs from harm. The party was on the point of taking a picture of a small cub when the mother appeared and rushed at them, roaring fearfully.

Mrs. Mundy, her husband and another member of the party stood their ground and shrieked and yelled at the bear in a desperate attempt to frighten it away. It was a hair-raising experience and one that left them limp from fright and shock.

The hardships of the trip were passed over lightly by the speaker, but when she explained that she carried packs weighing fifty to sixty pounds over the rough surface of the glacier, it was plain to the audience that the alpinists had no easy task to surmount to reach their goal.

The particular trip described up Mount Silverthorne had been prompted when they viewed the mountain from Mt. Waddington, which they had scaled on a previous occasion. Highlights of the Waddington trip were described by Mrs. Mundy on a previous visit to Kelowna.

In the absence of President W. E. Adams, Dr. J. W. N. Shepherd introduced the speaker. A vote of thanks was accorded her by Albert Cameron.

DIET PLAYS PART IN ARMY ROUTINE

Calories, vitamins and all elements beloved of dietitians have played an important role in preparing a new scale of rations for the Canadian military and air forces. Plenty of fresh fruits, eggs and milk are contained in the new modernized list. A committee of scientists and diet experts of the national research council of Canada provided the new scale upon request of the department of national defence. The new list presents a varied diet of healthful and health-giving foods, in all instances arising from commodities which Canada produces in abundance.

B.A. Oilers Cinch Interior Cage Title Over Princeton

CAGERS LOSE BY TWO POINTS IN REAL THRILLER

School Team Bows to Penticton in Interior Final by Close Score — Juniors Take Big Lead

The clang of the final gong sounded one-quarter second too soon at the Scout hall on Thursday night for Kelowna school intermediate B to capture the interior championship for the second successive year. Having defeated Princeton 50-30 in the first game at the Scout hall in Kelowna, the Oilers took the round by a total count of 81-58.

Carl Tostenson was the big noise of the Kelowna win last Saturday night as he rolled up the season's biggest score of 20 points. It was a rough, tough game with neither side sparing the forces. Because of lack of transportation, the Oilers could not take a referee with them and the players were not checked up as closely as they otherwise would have been.

After taking a three-point lead in the first quarter, 10-7, the Oilers dropped single points in the next two quarters, but still lead 19-10 going into the final canto. In that period the Oilers outscored the Princeton lads 12 to 4 and thus held tight to the lead from the initial game and boosted it considerably.

It was a low scoring contest as the checking was so close that the players did not get free to score. Two players left the floor on personal in the final quarter, they being Jim Tostenson of Kelowna and Cody of Princeton. Ten fouls were called on the Oilers while 11 were placed against the miners.

Kelowna sank five out of thirteen free shots while the losers could only put in four out of fourteen attempts. As a result of this victory, the Kelowna B.A. Oilers now take on Kimberley in the Kootenay-Interior playoffs, with the Kootenay team travelling to this city this week-end for a two game series, on Friday and Saturday. If the Oilers win this series they will travel to the coast to meet the mainline winners over the Easter week-end for the provincial championships.

The teams lined up as follows at Princeton: Kelowna B.A. Oilers: C. Tostenson 20, J. Tostenson 2, Ward, Handlen 2, Brydon, Roth, Henderson 5, Barnett, Mills 2, James—31. Princeton Int. A: Russell, Mathewson 1, Cody 6, Mullin 4, Stogren 4, Currie, Mitchell 5, Kovich 2, Taylor, Loski—22.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT OR PARTY POLITICS?

"Prime Minister MacKenzie King declared neither he nor his cabinet would enter the National Government."
—Canadian Press Despatch, Feb. 24, 1940

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT:

Dr. Manion:

"I call on all men and women of good faith to join with me in a whole-hearted desire to serve our country and our Empire in preserving the principles of liberty for which we are fighting."

"I appeal to all Canadians, regardless of party—the friends of the Conservative party, and its peacetime critics and opponents—to forget the things which once divided us, and to unite behind an effective prosecution of the war until victory is achieved, and as well, to assist us in preparing for the serious problems of the after-war."

"Since accepting the Conservative leadership, Dr. Manion has measured up to the responsibilities of his position in a way that must be gratifying to the country at large."

REPLY TO ELLIS-TUCKER

Kelowna, B.C., March 4, 1940:
 Editor, Kelowna Courier:
 I read with interest Mr. Ellis-Tucker's letter in your recent issue. I am afraid that he has overlooked the views of men like Lugenhelm who effectively rebuted Vico and Croce. Lugenhelm's "Evolution of the State" and Von Shellingwert's "Self Determinism" are considered the last word on this subject. After all were they not echoing Anaxagoras and Pericles who so strenuously opposed the domination of the oligarchy centred in the Aeo-

2 LOYD INTERVIEWS

Jack Lynne, Ontario Pro-Box supervisor, received word on Wednesday that a group of Vancouver gymnasts, headed by Jerry Mathison and Ernie Grant, labelled here two years ago as "Handle Bar Hank", will be in Kelowna for a mass display at the Scout hall on Thursday, March 21. These Vancouver stars have received high praise in their appearances in the past two years and are great favorites with the crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pridham, O. St. P. Aitkens and L. J. Kelley returned this week from a visit to San Francisco.

head of the C.I.L., now the head of the British Purchasing Board; Graham Towers, at the head of the Bank of Canada, one of the brainiest men in the country, guides Canada's financial affairs; while at the head of the Canadian Army is General MacNaughton, a scientist and former chairman of the National Research Council. In short, the best brains in Canada are already in the service of the present government and Dr. Manion would not find it possible to improve on these appointments.

Touching on the matter of Canada's war effort to date, the speaker illustrated the great difference in preparing an expeditionary force in this war as compared to the last. Canada's first division in the last war had a strength of 22,000 men, and took with them their motorized equipment totalling, slightly over 1000 horsepower. The first division in the present conflict, went to England 16,000 strong, but took with them in motorized equipment no less than 180,000 horsepower. This was an indication of just what it means to equip and maintain a division in this war, and the far greater expense and organization work involved in placing an expeditionary force in Europe today.

As a result of the development of Canada's trade to where it was, a billion and a half dollars higher than had been when the government took office, the unemployment in Canada had dropped from a figure well over a million to slightly over six hundred thousand.

The candidate referred only briefly to the C.C.F. and stated that the likelihood of their program ever being put in effect all at one time was remote, but many of the ideas they advocated were good, and that he was prepared to support, as far as he was able, the more practicable planks in their platform.

In conclusion, he stressed the advantage to the people of Yale and the fruit grown when the government having a member at Ottawa with the ear of the government, and able to support the growers' requests in the party caucus. There is no doubt that the Liberal government will be returned, he declared and promised to serve the people of Yale riding to the utmost of his ability if they choose him as their representative on the Liberal party.

The final speaker of the evening was Art Lang, of Vancouver, Liberal standard bearer in the riding of Delta in the last provincial election. He proved to be an excellent and convincing speaker and in spite of the fact that he had been preceded by three other speakers, he held the close attention of his audience throughout.

Getting down to a discussion of the issues of the campaign he dealt with the expressed intention of Dr. Manion to set up a national government of the best brains of the country. He was in the opinion of the good doctor to form such a government. In the first place the National Liberal party would not enter into such a government, and the C.C.F. leader had clearly stated that they would have nothing to do with it. This being the case, where could he turn for the key men to run the war, from outside the political parties? Already the best men in Canadian industry are filling war jobs in an administrative capacity, citing the following, Wallace R. Campbell, head of Ford Motors in Canada, who holds the post of chairman of the War Purchasing Board; Arthur B. Purves, when he defeated Evelyn Effner, of Toronto, in the final.

Margaret Taylor, who was Canadian champion in 1935, made a gallant effort to reach the finals in this event but was stopped by Clare Ehnman, of Regina, a young star who is fast rising in the bantam world. Miss Ehnman played an inspired game against Miss Taylor to score the biggest upset of Friday's play.

In the first round, Margaret eliminated Miss D. Shepherd, Toronto, 11-9, 9-11, 11-4 but in the quarter finals, she fell before Miss Ehnman.

Loose Doubles Crown
Margaret Taylor and Vess O'Shea, Vancouver, have held the women's doubles Canadian crown for the past two years, but Mrs. W. R. Walton, Ottawa, and Miss Evelyn Effner, Toronto, eliminated them this year by close scores of 18-15, 15-12.

After this victory, nobody could stop the eastern pair and they went on to the finals where they were down Mrs. Guy Perodou and Betty Snell, Ottawa, 15-10, 11-15, 15-10.

In the men's doubles, Alan France teamed with Johnny Samis, Vancouver, to defeat Parker and Malcolmson, Winnipeg, 15-10, 18-13. But in the quarter finals, they had to bow before another Winnipeg pair of Johnny Forsythe and Bert Jones, 5-15, 15-12, 18-15.

Both Margaret Taylor and Alan France entered the mixed doubles but they were partnered by Mrs. Bertram, Winnipeg. They defeated W. Whatter, Toronto, and Helen Woodside, Winnipeg, 15-4, 15-7, in the first round but in the quarter finals they bowed out to F. Longridge and Miss M. Bonthron, Moose Jaw, 18-16, 12-15, 15-12.

Margaret Taylor partnered Jack Underhill, Vancouver, veteran, in the mixed doubles. They defeated Chown and Mrs. Guy Perodou, Montreal, 15-3, 15-7, in the first round and followed this with a triumph over Miss D. Gray, Guelph, and J. Sibbald, Toronto, 18-14, 18-15.

In the semi-finals, however, Eric Leney, Duncan, and Jean Eckhardt, Vancouver, the young coast stars, bested them in three hard sets, 15-7, 7-15, 15-6.
